FINAL SESSION OF INSTITUTE

Week Proved Pleasant and Profitable to the Teachers. Professor Sanders Outlined Work of Next Year's Summer School.

After four days of instruction and entertainment the public school teachers of Adams County adjourned this morning and returned to their homes on the afternoon trains, full of practical information and new ideas on how to conduct their schools to the best advantage of their pupils and themselves. The week has been one of profit and pleasure throughout and is generally agreed to have been one of the most enjoyable which it has been the privilege of the teachers to attend.

The evening entertainments were of a higher character than usual and drew large houses, Thursday evening's audience being even larger than that of the evening preceding. The annex of the chapel, usually considered very undesirable, was well filled and there was little available room left. The attraction was the Fellows Singers who gave a two part program, first, a concert and then "Penelope," a little comedy with music, introducing many of the old airs so seldom heard now. "I Dreamt that I Dwelt in Marble Halls," "Then You'll Remember Me" and a number of others.

Prof. Charles F. Sanders appeared before the institute on Thursday to present facts concerning the Summer School which will be held in Gettysburg next year. The school will open the third Monday in June and continue until the opening of Chautauqua, the latter part of July. There will be a number of courses, one in oratory of which, it is expected, Prof. George P. Bible, of Philadelphia, will have charge. There will likely be one in music and in Bible study, while the normal course is assured.

It was this last course which Prof. Sanders wished especially to bring to the attention of the teachers. He will announce the instructors about the first of January and an attractive and profitable course will be arranged which, it is hoped, will bring many teachers here for the six weeks' school. It is very unusual for a county, the size of Adams, to afford such an opportunity to its teachers and, as there is no other school of this character in this section, it is probable that teachers from other counties will also attend. The teachers, this morning, adopted resolutions favoring attendance upon Chautauqua and Summer Schools.

Prof. Warren lectured Thursday afternoon on "The Ideal Teacher" and Dr. Ellis on "The Results of Education." This morning the devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. L. Dow Ott and the final lectures were given, Prof. Warren's subject being "Not on the Program" and Dr. Ellis' "Horace Mann." President Granville addressed the institute on "Character and Intelligence," the various reports were heard and adopted and institute adjourned.

WANTS DAMAGES FROM RAILROAD

Traveling Man who was Hurt Near Local Station Wants his Hotel Bill Paid. Claims he Stepped on a Switch Point

Lester Scott, of New York City, a traveling salesman for a clothing concern, who injured his ankle in Gettysburg 10 days ago while boarding a train to go to Waynesboro, has filed an affidavit before a Waynesboro magistrate, against the Western Maryland Railroad Company, to recover the money he has been compelled to spend at a hotel for board and lodging while recuperating from the accident.

Scott has been laid up since the accident occurred and has been under the care of Dr. J. W. Croft, of Waynesboro. He is now able to walk with the aid of a cane. He has his injured foot incased in a moccasin.

It is claimed by Gettysburg people who witnessed the accident that Scott tried to board a passenger train when warned by the brakeman not to do so. He disregarded the warning it is said, and slipped, his foot striking a broken bottle lying at the side of the track. The bottle had a ragged edge with one thick piece pointing upward. This penetrated his foot causing blood to flow and a somewhat painful injury. Scott, it is understood, claims that his foot struck a switch point, causing the injury. The bottle with blood on it was found some time after the accident.

IN TRYING PLACE

Several Hanover autoists recently had a trying experience over here when they missed the road and switched on the private road and ran down to within a few feet of the Big Conewago Creek before discovering their mistake. Here the heavy machine with the two young couples sank deep into the mud and after strenuous efforts to back out of the predicament the men were obliged to get several farmers to pull them back. It was a short time after midnight and we are told the joy riders had considerable trouble to arouse some people from their slumbers. Messrs. Howard King and John Myers, when informed of the circumstances, kindly harnessed three horses and yanked the touring car out of the swamp and put the stranded party on their way rejoicing. East Berlin News.

MORE STORIES FROM HUNTERS

Deer hunting stories are numerous. Master Paul McCauslin, the thirteen year old son of Isaac McCauslin, of near Wrensville, can claim the distinction of being the youngest deer hunter to bring down his buck. Last Saturday morning he asked permission to go deer hunting which was reluctantly granted by his parents on account of his youth. Permission secured, he started in company with another young man for the mountain. They hunted until about dinner time then started for home when they saw a deer. They both shot and the deer ran. It started to make a circle when young McCauslin, with the sagacity of an old hunter, cut across and headed it off and got another shot which partly brought it down, he then ran up and shot it in the head at short range. He used a small 32 cavalry rifle.

On Thursday morning Wm. Stauffer, a motorman, took his rifle and went out to Caledonia. He left the car, walked up to the dancing pavilion, saw a 9 pronged stag, shot four bullets into him, killed him and was back at the trolley station in just nine minutes.

A lad from Duffield had been at the camp of the club from that village but had to go home one day recently to help his father with the farm work. The boy, he is but 17, started very reluctantly and went along with his old army musket over his arm, to walk to the trolley line. He stopped along his way and going behind a clump of bushes looked around. Just before him a few paces a stag poked his head and shoulders out from behind a shrub clump. The lad took aim and pulled the trigger. The cap failed to explode. Pulling back the hammer he tried again and again the cap was dead. The buck remained almost motionless. The boy pulled back the hammer, took a quick aim and pulled once more and this time shot the stag in the shoulder dropping him. He cut his throat and, getting help took the buck's carcass to camp.

A Harrisburg professional man saw a deer about 300 paces from him, back of Carson's cafe and instinctively pulled up and blazing away drove a steel clad bullet through the deer's head. The poor animal dropped but by the time the hunter was afraid that it might be a doe, as at that distance he could see no horns and he hurriedly left, the shot deer being given no more attention. A Chambersburg hunter ran across the wounded deer and ended its misery and very properly took possession of it. It had small but distinctly visible horns.

William Sheldon, of Waynesboro, killed his first deer on Thursday. He is a member of the Rouzerville hunt club and was in camp with it at Cold Springs. The deer weighed 125 pounds.

George Overcash, Rouzerville, of the same club, killed a 140-pound buck and, Robert Miller, Rouzerville, secured a deer weighing 125 pounds.

Hunters say the deer are plentiful but the high wind makes it difficult to get them. Because of the wind the deer cannot be heard in the forest.

BEATTIE ELECTROCUTED

(By Telegraph)
Richmond, Virginia, Nov. 24—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., was taken to the death chair at 7.19 this morning. The current was turned on at 7.20 and five minutes later he was declared dead. Before he left murderer's row, it is declared in authoritative circles, he confessed and told the guard, "Give my love to all my friends." He said nothing in the death chamber where only the prison officials, two clergymen and twelve witnesses saw the execution. The body was turned over to the family.

NEWS NOTES FROM COLLEGE CAMPUS

First of the Free Lecture Course Series Scheduled for Next Tuesday Evening. Plays Make Progress.

Rev. Dr. E. Meister, of Lancaster, will be here next Tuesday evening to deliver the first lecture of this year's free course at college. His subject will be "Ben-Hur" and the address will be illustrated with a large number of stereopticon views. The course last winter was very popular and town and college people alike profited from it. Rev. Dr. Meister recently received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Gettysburg College.

The final game of foot ball for this season will be played at Lancaster on Thanksgiving Day with the old rivals, Franklin and Marshall. The capture of this contest will retrieve many of the disappointments of the season and the eleven is working hard to get in shape for the big game. Gettysburg will be represented by its best team since the Penn game and the students are sanguine of victory. The Reserves will play Bloomsburg Normal at Bloomsburg on the same day.

The three plays, "An Easy Mark," "The Fifth Commandment" and "Fooling Father" that are to be given in Bruns Chapel on December 8, are being rehearsed daily under the direction of Prof. Moser and the casts are all progressing nicely with the work so that a thoroughly delightful entertainment is promised.

Saturday evening at half past eight o'clock the college band will hold a stag dance in the gymnasium. Some surprises, it is said, are in store for those who attend. The band is one of the many musical organizations at the school which have been making good. The combined musical clubs will take a trip during the winter months and dates are now being arranged. It is intended to take in Washington as one of the cities on the route.

A Reader Cures His Constipation—Try It Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., and Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City. Thousands of others of both sexes have written to Dr. Caldwell telling of gratifying results it can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

LABOR LEADERS TO BE TRIED AGAIN

Contempt Not Subject to Statute of Limitations.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, must again stand trial in the supreme court of the District of Columbia on charges of contempt arising out of the Bucks Stove and Range case.

Justice Wright handed down a decision overruling the motion of the labor leaders for a dismissal of the proceedings under the statute of limitations. The court held that contempt of court is not classed as criminal, and consequently not subject to the bar of the statute of limitations.

Notice of a special appeal to the court of appeals was filed by counsel for the defendants. This means that an attempt will be made to take the case to the upper courts before testimony is taken.

The supreme court of the United States recently dismissed the original case, but gave the lower court the right to renew the proceedings. At this time the controversy between the stove company and the American Federation of Labor had been settled. Notwithstanding this, however, Justice Wright took the ground that the dignity of the district supreme court's orders had been violated and again cited the labor leaders to appear and defend themselves.

In addition to overruling the plea for abatement under the statute of limitations, Justice Wright dismissed the motion which charged the court with unreasonable delay in making the charges of alleged contempt on the ground that they were frivolous and without merit. In this connection Justice Wright said:

"Nor does the court say that these paragraphs are not of an affrontive and insolent nature which would justify and perhaps ought to require the striking of them from the files."

Justice Wright declined also to grant the request of Gompers and his associates that the testimony be taken in open court.

WAR SCARE SHAKES BRITAIN

Sir Edward Grey to Resign
From Cabinet.

BRYCE MAY SUCCEED HIM

England Was on Verge of War With Germany Over Morocco—Other Ministers Are Involved.

London, Nov. 24.—The belief prevails in political circles that Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, will retire from the cabinet after his eagerly awaited exposition on foreign relations, on Nov. 27, in the house of commons, and that James Bryce, ambassador to the United States, will succeed him.

The resignation of the foreign secretary will almost certainly be handed to the prime minister should any lack of confidence be shown in his policy during the debate which will follow his statement on Monday.

Sir Edward Grey, who, during the earlier years of his occupancy of the foreign office, received the almost unanimous support of all parties, has recently been the object of continuous attack, not from the opposition, but by members of his own party, or rather the extreme radical element in that party. The secrecy with which diplomatic negotiations have been carried on has aroused the ire of the Radicals, who latterly have received some support from the more moderate Liberals.

The disclosures regarding the Anglo-German conversations with respect to Morocco and statements that these two countries were on the verge of war, has given the radicals another opening, and they are now, it is understood, pressing for the retirement of Sir Edward, declaring: "We won't be drawn into war without knowing the reason why."

The radicals favor an Anglo-German understanding, and accuse Sir Edward Grey of backing their efforts in this direction, either by his own design or through the influence of anti-German officials in the foreign office. Should Sir Edward resign, Viscount Haldane, secretary of war, and Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, will likely follow him.

James Bryce is the man considered most likely to be his successor, since he would be supported by the entire party, as he was when the Unionists attacked him for the part he took in the reciprocity negotiations between Canada and the United States.

By a tacit understanding the Unionist leaders support the government's foreign policy, or at least refrain from criticizing it. They, like the Moderate Liberals, argue: "Why turn a brilliant diplomatic victory into defeat by sacrificing the victor, in order to procure the good will of vanquished Germans?"

The prime minister, it is true, is under moral obligations to avoid a crisis during the king's absence, but it may be beyond his power to do so.

Germany Sure Crisis Is Past.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 24.—Foreign Secretary Von Kiderlen-Waechter's explanation leaves no doubt that a German-English clash was imminent in July, according to an apparently inspired dispatch from Berlin in the Cologne Gazette, which adds:

"The acute crisis is past, but the situation remains grave. Germany awaits with even greater tension Great Britain's coming explanation. Upon this will depend the relations of the two countries in the future—whether they are to be distrustful and unfriendly, or whether a better understanding will be brought about. Germany is reluctant to believe in the possibility that a war could break out over night between two great powers without a real question being at issue, but late events have spoken only too clearly."

PRINCE CONSORT HISSED

Dutch Workmen Bar Path of Royal Hunting Party.

Amsterdam, Nov. 23.—While Prince Henry and a party were hunting near Hetloo their path was barred by a score of workmen carrying spades.

One who had a gun refused to allow the royal party to pass, and they were obliged to retreat. They were followed by hisses and shouts.

Three Drown From Skiff.

Baltimore, Nov. 24.—Three men were drowned off Tilghman's Island, Chesapeake bay, by the capsizing of their skiff. They were John Kelly and Lee, white men, and Abe Chalmers, colored. The men had been hired as sailors for the oyster bugeye J. C. Armiger, and were on their way to the vessel when their boat was overturned by a heavy sea.

A. F. of L. to Raise McNamara Fund.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 24.—By a vote of 196 to 7, the convention of the American Federation of Labor requested all affiliated unions to give one week's pay to the McNamara defense fund. President Gompers estimates that about $60,000 will thus be added to the fund, now reported to be $240,000.

PARIS EDITORS FIGHT DUEL

One Wounded in Dispute Over Scandal Linked With Mme. Curie.
Paris, Nov. 24.—A dispute over the merits of the charges against M. Langevin, professor of general and experimental physics at the College of France, brought by his wife and involving the professor's co-worker in scientific research, Mme. Curie, resulted in a duel with swords between M. Chervet, editor of Gil Blas, and Leon Daudet, editor of Action Française.

There were several fierce bouts under the cameras of a score of photographers. Finally Daudet was wounded in the arm. A reconciliation followed.

The charges in which the names of the two eminent scientists, Mme. Curie and Professor Langevin, have been involved have created an immense amount of comment in the French capital and have raised bitter party spirit. The allegations were founded on the fact that Mme. Curie and Professor Langevin were in close association in their scientific research.

This gave rise to jealousy on the part of M. Langevin, who thereupon brought suit against her husband, coupling his name with that of Mme. Curie.

Mme. Curie, who was credited equally with her late husband in the discovery of radium, was, after his death, nominated to occupy the chair of physics, which he had held at the College of France. Since that time she has made several discoveries valuable to science.

MIGUEL STRIKES FOR CROWN MANUEL LOST

Republican Troops Defeat the Royalist Invaders.

Lisbon (via frontier), Nov. 24.—Advices from Montego, say that a small group of monarchists, believed to be the vanguard of the main body, has crossed the frontier. It tried to capture the town, but was repulsed by republican troops sent out from Chaves.

It is declared that the Duke of Oporto, uncle of ex-King Manuel, is to take supreme command of the monarchist forces, and that he will be accompanied by the two princes, Miguel of Braganza, the pretender to the Portuguese throne, and his son.

Guimaraes, a fortified town in the province of Minho, was invaded by a band of masked bandits calling themselves republican carbaneros. Armed with bombs, they pillaged houses and other property. A military force has been sent in pursuit.

It is understood in Lisbon that Holland has offered $5,000,000 for the purchase of the Portuguese part of the island of Timor, in the Malay Archipelago, now divided between Holland and Portugal. The purchase would solve a long-pending boundary dispute between the two countries.

FIGHTING POULTRY TRUST

Indianapolis Mayor to Sell Thanksgiving Turkeys at Cost.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 24.—Mayor Shank has determined that Thanksgiving turkey shall be within reach of all classes, and he left for southern Indiana, where he expects to buy 1200 to 1500, which he expects to sell at cost.

He has already arranged with A. L. Long of Fillmore, for the sale of 300 turkeys, 700 chickens and 500 pounds of country butter on the market next Tuesday, the turkeys to sell at 17 cents, the chickens at 10 cents and the butter at 28 cents a pound.

The mayor's purchase of turkeys is expected to arrive also in time for Tuesday's market, and if not they will be put on sale on Wednesday, the market to be open all day for the convenience of Thanksgiving buyers.

When it became known that the mayor would buck the poultry trust by buying turkeys, letters came pouring into his office from many citizens, telling him that they would see that he did not lose through his venture.

He is at the state hospital in a critical condition.

ATwentiethCentury Marriage Contract

By EDNA PHILLIPS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Marriage in one respect is very different from what it was a century ago. Then there was one head to the family, the husband. Now, it is claimed, nine-tenths of the young women of the world, including the wealthy classes, work. This educates them to a self dependence of which their grandmothers knew nothing.

Charlotte Blake was one of these girls who worked. Work to her was not necessary. Her father was abundantly able to support her, but she could not brook idleness. She possessed a good voice and would have liked to go on the stage had her father not objected. As it was, she gave music lessons. But when she engaged herself to Henry Pomeroy her lover objected to her doing anything whatever, so she gave up teaching.

She had been engaged several months without hearing anything from her fiancé as to their marriage, and, time hanging heavy on her hands, she spoke to him about the matter.

"I'm getting things into shape for that," he said. "Leave it to me. Just as soon as I'm ready I'll let you know."

"Do you propose always to keep your affairs to yourself?"

"Why would you wish to hear about them? You wouldn't understand them, and your opinions upon them would only bother me. I'm like a horse used to a mountain trail. Give him his head and he'll carry you safely. Try to guide him and he'll spill you."

This was all that was said about the matter at the time. Miss Blake continued to do nothing, while Mr. Pomeroy pursued the even tenor of his way without mentioning his affairs to her. He was devoted to her in other respects, taking her to the theater, to drives and affording her other amusements. Indeed, he treated her in the old fashioned way, as his father had treated his mother, as his grandfather had treated his grandmother.

But Charlotte lived in a different age from his mother or his grandfather. She had been developed. She was itching to assume her part of the family headwork. Self control was one of the features of this development, and that self control enabled her, having spoken once on the matter that most interested her, to refrain from doing so again. Nevertheless, there was a smoldering fire within Miss Blake was a representative of the twentieth century woman.

Meanwhile the flowers came regularly, and her fiancé was not sparing of his invitations. As to the flowers, she sent them to an invalid whom she regarded her especial protegee, and some of the invitations she declined. These methods of courtship did not interest her. Pomeroy, not having risen to modern methods, knew of no other way to show his devotion, while she, being a modern girl, had no use for attentions in vogue half a century before.

One evening Pomeroy appeared at her home and said: "I am happy to announce that my affairs are now in condition to take you from your father and support you in the same style as that to which you have been accustomed."

"What am I to do?"

"What are you to do? I don't understand you."

"I infer from what you say that you will be able to hire the best of servants, who will take every care of the house. I see nothing to occupy me. My mind will be a vacuum."

"What have ladies always done?"

"I am not concerned with that. I have never considered marriage even in the present day. I only know that I am a woman, have earned a sufficiency to take care of myself and don't need any one to take care of me. If I could be, as a married woman, a partner in my husband's affairs I suppose I should be interested in matrimony. As it is, I don't think I have any use for it."

"I have found the period of engagement insipid. You have sent me flowers and theater tickets. I only wonder that you didn't send me a doll. Now you propose to set me up in your home as a wax figure under a glass cover. I decline the honor. I am about to sign a contract to go on the stage. I'm going to try occupying myself in the profession of music for two years, but I am practical enough to realize that if I once enter upon that profession I shall doubtless follow it as long as my voice lasts. That is what others have done, and I see no reason why I should be an exception."

Pomeroy was so taken aback that for awhile he did not know what to say. "It seems to me," he said finally, "that you are proceeding as much too fast as I am too slow. I see that I am not up to date in the matter of a courtship or in my estimate of the modern position of a wife. I will meet you halfway. I will take you as a partner as well as one to love if you will give up the career you have chosen to accept the partnership."

"Now you are proposing something that meets my concurrence," said Charlotte. "I agree to your terms."

But the care of a family threw the wife back to the status of her grand mother. She found it impossible to supply the wants of her children and learn enough about her husband's business to consult with him intelligently. The consequence was that she naturally dropped into her own sphere, leaving her husband to occupy his alone.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur
Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A
Remedy for All Hair
Troubles.

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store, Special Agent for Gettysburg.

WHAT ONE CITY MAN DID.

Chicago papers of a recent date tell of the success of a city man, with a "back to the land" banking, in raising sugar beets during the past season. He held a city position, but thought he would give agriculture a trial. Accordingly he rented a forty acre farm some thirty miles out and made his home there, going in to his work. He saw to the proper preparation of the ground and had the entire area sowed to sugar beets. He did no manual labor, but only planned and superintended the work. He has recently sold the beet crop for $3,000. His expenses were $2,000, leaving him $1,000 net for his trouble. Not every man could do this, it will be admitted, for there was necessary, first, the ability to appreciate the opportunity and, secondly, determination and energy to carry the plan into execution. But notwithstanding this the incident shows that opportunities for getting ahead are a long way from exhausted.

In ponds where carp are raised for market the practice is quite common of fattening the fish before catching them by feeding them soaked shelled corn, which they are said to eat greedily. Even fish know a good thing when they get it.

One should not only exercise care in the matter of the terms of notes which one signs, but also in the wording and terms of contracts for land that he may contemplate purchasing. It is some better perhaps to look into this matter carefully and if necessary pay a good attorney for doing so, but in the end one may save hundreds and possibly thousands of dollars.

The San Jose scale is a pest that requires a stronger spray than tender growing foliage will stand. For this reason the treatment should be made between the time the leaves fall in autumn and the time they start in the spring. If the job is delayed until spring the spraying will also play smash with the green aphids, which is a troublesome pest in many sections.

A fine team of six-year-old Percherons which a friend drives to town frequently and for which he would hardly take a cold $500 indulged in a short but vicious run the other day. In explaining it the owner said it was not due to any meanness on the part of the horses, but to the fact that the harness and double trees were in poor repair. This team will not run away with him for the same cause again.

It is a long step from the grease which used to be sold at country stores before the day of the creamery at 5 cents per pound to the 3,000 pounds of butter which were sold the other day at auction at the close of a big dairy show, which scored an average of ninety points and brought 33 1/2 cents per pound. The difference in the prices quoted nicely typifies the progress which has been made in the organized dairy business in the past thirty years.

BEATTIE PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Wife Slayer Electrocuted in Richmond Jail.

HIS LAST DAY ON EARTH

Bid Farewell to His Father and Family Amid Sobs and Tears and Said His Memory Will Be Vindicated After Death.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24. — Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., was electrocuted in the penitentiary here this morning for the murder of his young wife on the Midlothian pike last July.

When Beattie arose he was given a suit of clothing by Superintendent Wood, of the penitentiary. The suit was cut in several places so that the metal contacts of the death chair could be placed directly against his flesh.

Rev. J. J. Fix and Rev. Benjamin Dennis accompanied Beattie from his cell into the chair room and gave him spiritual consolation until the last moment.

The execution was witnessed by a jury of twelve men, Beattie's spiritual advisers, the superintendent of the penitentiary and the official electrician.

Under the Virginia laws all representatives of newspapers are refused admittance to the death chamber at executions and detailed descriptions are forbidden.

Beattie bid farewell to his relatives yesterday afternoon, his father remaining with him until 8 o'clock last evening. He was also visited by his brother Douglas, his sister Hazel and his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Bowman, who remained more than an hour at the door of his cell. The kinfolk conversed in muted tones, with frequent sobs and tears. The doomed slayer comforted his aged parents and other relatives with words of prayer.

He was not afraid to die, he told them. Sooner or later the murderer of his wife would be captured and the family honor vindicated, he stoutly asserted.

With tears bathing his cheeks and his frail form quivering, the venerable father clasped his boy in his arms in the corridor of the death house and sobbingly bade him good-bye. The guard outside the death cell yielded to the old man's request to open the door and let the young man step into the hallway that he might be embraced by his father. Then in turn Beattie was smothered with kisses by each of his relatives.

As the cell door locked behind him as he re-entered the iron cage, Beattie threw himself upon his cot and burst into violent weeping.

While Rev. J. J. Fix remained outside Beattie's cell and tried to calm and comfort the prisoner, Rev. Benjamin Dennis, his other spiritual adviser, tenderly placed his arms around the bereaved father, and together with Douglas Beattie, assisted him into the superintendent's office, where he remained some moments to regain his composure and summon sufficient strength to leave the institution.

All arrangements have been made for a simple funeral service, to be held at the slayer's grave. The grave diggers were busy in the Beattie plot preparing a reception place beside Mrs. Louise Owen Beattie, victim of the tragedy of July 18, for the body of her convicted murderer husband.

The services will be brief and private, no flowers being sent, at the request of the family, and only the immediate kinfolk of the deceased were present.

BEULAH BINFORD IN GOTHAM

Denied by Employers She Will Even Comment on Beattie's Execution.

New York, Nov. 24.—Beulah Binford, "the other woman" in the Beattie case, is in New York, and has no intention of visiting Richmond, according to a statement made by her employers.

Her connection with the Beattie case is closed, they said, and she has made no recent comment upon the outcome, nor will she make any, notwithstanding reports to the effect that she declared Beattie would die for a crime he did not commit.

Exploding Dynamite Kills Man.

$10,000 VERDICT FOR USING NAME

Woman Wins Suit Against Book Publisher.

New York, Nov. 24.—A jury in the supreme court awarded a verdict of $10,000, the full amount asked, to Mrs. Florence Crew Jones after trial of her suit against James L. Perkins, a publisher.

Mrs. Jones, who is a translator, contended that the publisher had used her name, unauthorized by her, in a book of short stories by Guy de Maupassant. Eight improper stories were inserted against her knowledge and consent, she said.

Basing her complaint on the "personal privilege law," which was passed to protect an individual against the use of his or her name for profit by another without the owner's consent, Mrs. Jones testified that she was "horrified" when she opened one of the books and saw eight grossly improper, poorly translated stories, with which she had nothing to do, published under her name as translator.

Thereafter she was deluged with letters and telephone messages from friends, expressing their surprise that she should translate such stories.

ELECTION BOARD GUILTY

Three Convicted After Judge Classed Ballot Crimes With Murder.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 24.—Edward D. Egan, James Wright and Thomas Loney, members of the election board of the Sixth district of Larksville borough, were convicted in court of committing fraud at the recent election.

The specific charges against the defendants were that they failed to return affidavits of non-registered voters and improper care of the ballot box. The condition of the contents of the box when brought into court were very filthy.

When the defendants were arraigned Judge Garman scored them severely and said crooked elections were in the same class as murder. The judge's charge undoubtedly did much to convict the three election officers.

Other election officers are awaiting trial on similar charges.

SICK MAN BURNED TO DEATH

Boy Set Fire to Bed Clothing and Aged Parent Perished.

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 24.—David G. Buck, seventy-two years old, was found burned to death at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Smith, on West Basin street.

The aged man had been ill for some time and had been confined to his bed. While the daughter went shopping the house was left in charge of a five-year-old son of Mrs. Smith.

The police say that the boy set fire in some manner to the bed clothing. He then crawled out of a window and was found on the front porch by the firemen. The body of Buck was found on the floor of the bedroom.

FARRAR ORDERED TO QUIT ENGLAND

The Disgraced Royal Chaplain Promptly Disappears.

TRYING TO HUSH MATTER UP

London, Nov. 24. — It is believed here that V. Frederick Percival Farrar has left England and that he will never return.

Because of his former position in the church he was not formally taken into custody in spite of the fact that a warrant had been issued for his arrest. To hush matters up a Scotland Yard detective was sent to Sandringham, with instructions to bring the rector to London. This was done to avoid the publicity which might follow an arrest.

Rev. Mr. Farrar was told to quit the British empire within twenty-four hours. No doubt he has done this, for as yet no trace of him has been found since he disappeared. Because of his birth and his accomplishments Farrar was a great favorite with the late King Edward and with Queen Alexandra.

After his graduation from Cambridge in 1897 he was made chaplain at Dover college. King Edward VII. presented him with the rectory of Ammer, on the royal estate, in 1904. He became curate in charge at Sandringham in 1906 and rector in 1907 upon the death of his predecessor. With the appointments of domestic chaplain to the king and to Queen Alexandra he became most popular. His gifted, simple eloquence was much appreciated by King Edward and he preached the last sermon that King Edward heard.

The chaplain was suspected of an unprintable offense and London detectives were sent to watch him. He was caught flagrante delicto and a warrant was taken out for his arrest pro forma.

He was married to Miss Nora Davis, sister of Richard Harding Davis, July 6, 1911, at St. Andrews, Westminster. She is prostrated with grief. On that occasion the register was signed by Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. Among those present were Anthony Hope, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mrs. A. J. Drexel. There were gifts from King George and Queen Mary and from Dowager Queen Alexandra and from the Prince of Wales.

The clergyman after the death of King Edward was appointed domestic chaplain to King George and honorary domestic chaplain to Queen Alexandra.

The cancellation of these offices is the first act of the commission appointed by King George to act in his stead while the king is absent in India.

It is reported that Mr. Farrar has gone to Canada. He probably is traveling incognito and the name of the steamer on which he is believed to have sailed is not known.

Richard Harding Davis Sails.

New York, Nov. 24.—Richard Harding Davis, brother of Mrs. Frederick Percival Farrar, sailed from New York for England on the Mauretania. At his hotel it was said that his decision to sail was rather sudden.

"TEACHERS SOCIALISTS"

Seven Out of Every Ten in New York Are, Says Bird Coler.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 24.—Branding socialism as the greatest menace of the age, Bird S. Coler, of New York, said that if the republic is "to remain great and decent socialism must be fought unceasingly."

"Nothing but religious instruction can protect the country," he said. "Seven out of every ten teachers in New York city are Socialists. The public schools are fast becoming temples of a new religion. By some it is known as agnosticism, by some as atheism, by some socialism and by others ethical culture."

Chanler Fails to Meet Cavalieri.

Paris, Nov. 24.—Madame Lina Cavalieri, the grand opera singer, and Robert Winthrop Chanler were summoned before Judge Monier, of the civil tribunal of the Seine, for the purpose of attempting to bring about a reconciliation. This is a formality in divorce proceedings required by the French legal code before the final hearing. Although it is understood that Mr. Chanler is in Europe, he did not come to the court, Madame Cavalieri alone putting in an appearance. Judge Monier thereupon issued a decree of non-reconciliation, and he will later fix the date for the hearing of the divorce suit.

DEVORE'S NERVES GOT BEST OF HIM IN WORLD'S SERIES.

Josh Devore, the little outfielder of the Giants, made a world's series record in the second game at Philadelphia when he struck out four times. Eddie Plank outgassed him, serving a curve when he looked for a fast ball, and vice versa.

Devore was peeved. He turned to the umpire instead of the ball. When Connolly called him out the second time he tossed his bat to show his disgust. The third time he tried to argue, but Connolly walked away. It was the same the fourth trip. Connolly ignored the kicks, but finally Devore got on his nerves.

When the third strike was called Devore said something, and Connolly pulled off his mask. Later Connolly related the conversation.

"It is easy to see how you hold your job in the American league," said Devore.

"It's hard to see how you hold yours with the Giants," responded Connolly.

COFFEY COMING CHAMPION.

Californian Has Shown Great Form in Recent Battles.

Walter Coffey, the California middleweight, who has been trimming all the cracks in the east, is only twenty-one years of age. He has been a hard worker for the last few years and is stronger and more rugged than the average of the present day men of the class.

Coffey put in a lot of time working at the oil wells down in Kern county, O. before he left the coast. He says the work and the fellows you bump up against around those oil fields are two of the toughest propositions in the world.

Coffey has a corking left hand and possesses a punch. In his battle with Young Longhrey of Philadelphia in New York recently Coffey showed he had a wallop by caving in two of the Quaker boy's ribs.

There is no other fighter who reminds one so much of Ketchel in general makeup. Whether he can fight half as well as Stanley did during his brief career in the ring is a question.

DEFI FROM CHOYNSKI.

Old Time Heavyweight Anxious to Return to Ring to Fight.

Joe Choyinski, who in his day stopped Jack Johnson, but whose day was supposed to be done, is anxious to return to the ring and is seeking a match. Buck Crouse of Pittsburgh is the man Choyinski especially desires to meet, and a challenge issued by the veteran is directed at the fighter named.

Into the ring, is now a director of athletics in Pittsburgh. Like McCoy and other veterans, he regards the men who are getting the money at present as a set of counterfeits, and he believes despite his age that he can beat most of them.

Remedy For Grease Heel.
For grease heel, commonly a foul smelling and disagreeable chronic disease, which practically ruins the sale of a horse, first wash the parts well with gasoline, being careful not to permit fire near. This cuts and loosens the crusts, which should be wiped off clean. Then apply daily a lotion made of one ounce of olive oil added to one ounce of salicylic acid, well shaken together, covering all the parts diseased. Cases affecting four feet on the same horse have been cured to stay cured with one application. This is also a valuable remedy for cuts, burns or bruises on man or beast. It will relieve a severe burn in two minutes.—Farm Journal.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Although the Pennsylvania eleven made a poor showing on the gridiron this season there is one moleskin warrior whose playing stands out above all others. He is Captain Mercer. It is doubtful if there is a faster back field man in football today than the Quakers' fullback. He starts quickly and gets up his speed wonderfully. He increased his value to the team nearly 50 per cent by mastering the straight arm in warding off tacklers. Mercer does this better than any man Pennsylvania ever had except Bill Hollenback of the 1908 eleven.

Penn to Have Strong Basketball Team.
The prospects of a successful basketball team this year at Pennsylvania are unusually bright. All but one of last year's five have returned former Captain Marks being the only loss. Captain Walton, Turner, Pierce, Jourdet, Keough and Kennedy assure a strong team, and the good material from last year's freshman team seems to promise a capable set of second string men.

The comparative chances for a championship are felt at Penn to be encouraging. All the other colleges have lost men and some will have to build up new teams, while Pennsylvania's veteran team, the only five to score a victory over Columbia in New York last year, remains almost intact and will be backed up by a likely squad of substitutes. Some of these are Graham, who played on the strong Haverford Grammar school five; Bullitt and Paxson, who were on Delancey's team last year, and Bisbee, who played two years on the Harstom school team. The first game will be played on Dec. 9.

Olympic Team May Lose Stars.
According to the Olympic rules, only athletes who are naturalized are eligible to represent the country they wish to compete for in the Olympic games. Through this ruling there are three athletes who are unable to sport their country's colors in the 1912 classes because they are not American citizens. They are Dan Ahern, Tim Ahern and Con Walsh.

The Ahern brothers wore the colors of John Bull, and Walsh struggled in behalf of Canada at the last Olympic games, which were held in London in 1908. Dan Ahern is the American running hop, step and jump champion and record holder. Tim Ahern is the senior champion running broad and hop, step and jump champion of the Metropolitan association. Walsh is a renowned hammer thrower.

Ketchel's Kin In Ring.
Leon Ketchel, brother of the late Stanley Ketchel, is the latest aspirant for honors in the boxing world. He weighs 154 pounds and is said to have an excellent chance in the lightweight division.

Since he began training he has had twenty fights as an amateur and two professional bouts, losing only one of the twenty-two, and that on a foul. He is said to have the old time shift that made his unfortunate brother famous and can hit hard.

Japan to Send Team to Olympics.
Japan is to be represented by a track and field team at the Olympic games next year, and a move is now under way to find out the best men for each event. What stirred the Japanese was the announcement recently that China would send a team, and the former nation is not going to be outdone in the matter of progress by any of its oriental neighbors when it comes to something modern.

A Generous Empress.
It is said that one morning at breakfast a general related to the emperor the misfortunes of a brother officer, who, "because he had not 15,000 francs, must be dishonored." While the emperor questioned further particulars Eugene flew to her room and, returning with a package of banknotes, said, "Take them, general, and never tell me his name." And his name the general's empress never knew.

HEAR THE BELLED BUZZARD

R. L. Funkhouser, Leroy Clopper and Otho Chaney, Big Pool, while husking corn, were attracted by the ringing of a bell overhead. Looking up they saw a buzzard flying at close range, which rang a bell as it flapped its wings. It is supposed to have been the noted bell buzzard so often heard of but which was supposed to have died.

CHANGES IN PLANTING

Contemplated changes in the system of "planting" fish in the streams of the state by the Fishery Department together with suggestions to farmers to raise "crops" of fish for market, were outlined by Commissioner N. R. Butler. These include the doing away with the wholesale shipping of trout fry and using yearlings as far as possible. Farmers with naturally fine facilities for fish raising will be given every aid by the state.

JUST READY TO DROP

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, haggard men and women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an iron clad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

The heifer calves on many a dirty farm are scurried on butter fat and are less thrifty than they would otherwise be. It is only fair to the calves as well as good management to supply a fat forming food in the shape of corn or oil meal when the natural fat of the milk is removed or sold with the milk.

Both in the matter of safeguarding the health and well being of the members of the family and in the care of the farm, animals there is all too much tendency to overlook the fact that prevention is vastly better than cure—the exercise of just good sense cheaper than medical attendance and veterinary service.

The small boy should keep in mind that even more important than a bright mind and a strong body in the life which lies before him are trustworthiness and honesty—in other words, that his word shall be good. Not a day passes but somewhere over the country men in various pursuits come to grief through this lack. The trait may require some pains to develop, but it is worth all it costs.

The New Crinoline Skirt.

The new skirts, while narrow, are less shocking than some of those to which we have been accustomed. While following the lines of the figure closely, they are usually relieved by a

About Trimmings.

Flannel lace is much used for panels, yokes and undersleeves. Sometimes the figures are embroidered in colors to carry out a tone idea of the costume.

Good old fashioned handmade torchon lace has been revived for the trimming of lingerie. It is a durable, serviceable lace that never should have gone out of fashion.

Though oriental embroideries have undergone certain changes, it is still the most brilliant eastern varieties—Egyptian, Armenian and Balikan—that are worn on the little corsages which accompany suits for out of doors.

SOME WINTER FADS AND FANCIES
Rows of Narrow Frills Worn on Smart Neckwear.

In place of the wide flounce which edged the fichu when it was in fashion years ago there now appears a very narrow lace frill, tightly gathered, three rows sometimes being employed as a finish. To give an approximate amount of material, a yard and a half of a double width plain Brussels net is required for the fichu and two yards and a quarter of lace to form one row.

A few rosebuds made from satin ribbon fasten the fichu in front. It is worth noting that on the newest fichus the narrowest piping of black velvet or satin is often introduced on the inner side, which throws up the lace or fine material of which it is made like a fine stippling.

A pair of cuffs made of net and lace to match are worn with the fichu. These cuffs are adapted to long or short sleeves and consist of about six inches of the net or lace finely plaited and bordered each side with a tiny edging of lace, while they are caught in the middle with a narrow circle of black velvet ribbon finished with a little bow.

To make one of the frills which are worn with the smart tailored frock tie handkerchief lawn or linen is the best material to use. This is very easily plaited, the fold remaining in place until the article is laundered, when the same plaiting process is repeated.

Wide stoles and muffs are made in soft ribbon and edged with marabou or astrakhan fur. A charmingly soft effect is given to these by a draping of chiffon over the inner folds. These are ideal for theater wear and when the extreme severity of the winter does not force us to take to our heavier furs.

Pretty Wraps.

The long, wide scarf so universal last winter is now cut with a square collar effect at the back and is worn draped round the figure and under one arm.

Hoods are worn on evening coats and wraps, on short cloth jackets of tailored suits and on long separate coats. They can be applied with little difficulty by the home dressmaker.

Thirteen at Dinner.

Thirteen at dinner is an old Norse myth. It was deemed unlucky because Loki, god of malice, once intruded, making thirteen guests, and Baldr, the brilliant god, was slain at the instigation of Loki, who prevailed upon Hodor, a strong but blind god, to throw Mistle, the mistletoe, at Baldr, performing the latter and letting out his divine soul.

Men of culture are the true apostles of equality.—Matthew Arnold.
